CONE JOHNSON INVENTS DAINTY

Solicitor Cone Johnson of the state department of Washington, D. C., whose home is at Tyler, Texas, recently admitted that he is the inventor of Texas' widely known and eaten "slang-jang." He went hunting with a party at home here 15 years ago ad the cook struck. Nobody would volunteer. Cone got so hungry he heated a kettle of water, uncanned beans ,pickles, tongue, tomatoes, peas, mustard, etc., indiscriminately, cooked it and ate it. So did the others. "Slang-jang" is on the menu of every cafe in the southwest today.

PANAMA TO HAVE EXPOSITION

Barring another postponement, the "national exposition of Panama" will open in Paama City Jauary 21, 1916.

Spain will be the guest of honor. The United States will be represented, but the treasury comptroller has ruled that the treasury won't pay more than $4 a day expenses for American commissioners.

Aside from its avowed purpose of strengthening the ties between Panama and Spain, as well as promoting the interests of the Americas, the exposition will be a celebration of the discovery of the Pacific ocean by Balboa. The exposition has nothing to do with the Panama canal.

WINONA ASSEMBLY IS FINANCED

Winona Assembly, the big Presbyterian chautauqua and religious assembly institution of which W. J. Bryan will soon become president, was placed on the auction block again today. This was one of the last steps necessary to the establishment of the sound financial basis demanded by Bryan.

Only creditors or their representatives could buy. The property has been appraised at $756,980. The sale will continue daily until completed. After the property has been distributed the reorganization will be completed.

CONSECRATION AND SOCIAL

Large numbers attended the consecration and social service at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening. The meeting will long be remembered by all present. Both the prayer service and the social hour which followed, were in honor of Miss Pearl Adams, who sails this week for Allahabad, India, to begin work as a teacher under the Presbyterian board of foreign missions of the United States. The Rev. W. C. Edmonds led the service in his usual stirring and helpful manner. Both he and Miss Adams in their earnest exposition of the Scripture lesson, appealed to every heart making all feel the saving and keeping power of Christ in the life.

Mr. Edmonds spoke very feelingly of the inspiration which Miss Adams as well as her father and mother had brought to Glendale Presbyterian church. In particular he referred to the uplift the Christian Endeavor society had felt from their work and influence. Many earnest prayers were offered for Miss Adams' safe journey and success in her work. Miss Adams spoke beautifully of her joy in going out and said that being a Christian she could not be honest with God and stay at home knowing the need for work in that far country. She also expressed great appreciation of her pastor, church and friends in Glendale, who, she said, were upholding her in her great work.

Mr. Edmonds asked the elders of the church to form a circle with Miss Adams, her father and mother and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the Missionary society, while Miss Irwin softly sang "Ready for Service." Then twenty-five young people came forward and joined the circle, thus signifying their desire to consecrate their lives to God. After the consecration service all sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

At the close of this service Mrs. Campbell invited all to remain for a social time and to bid goodby to Miss Adams. Mrs. Clendennin and her committee furnished dainty refreshments. Miss Jennie Horsch, in behalf of the Philathea class, presented Miss Adams with a beautiful ring as a token of their fidelity. The large audience present at the consecration acknowledged the power and uplift of the Holy Spirit on this occasion.

SEAMEN'S LAW EFFECTIVE NOW

The LaFollette seamen's law, which shipping interests have complained will drive American shipping from the seas because of the alleged unreasonable equipment and life saving apparatus required by it for all American registered ships, goes into effect today. There has been much discussion and several opinions by government officials concerning various phases of the law. An effort to have the law repealed by congress this winter will be opposed by the legislators who drafted the bill.

BLUE GRASS STATE

GLENDALE HAS A NUMBER OF EXCELLENT CITIZENS WHO HAIL FROM KENTUCKY

Doubtless the "old Kentucky home far away" has as strong an attraction for the well-to-do white people who remember the fields where "the corn is ripe and the meadows in bloom and the b'rds make music all the day" as for the darkies who are supposed to sing the song. Kentuckians are proud of their state and ready to maintain its beauties and its many excellent qualities against all comers. Nevertheless the Kentuckians who dwell in Glendale are willing to admit that they have the enjoyment of things as good in Glendale and the promise of a great future in California.

No better citizens are to be found anywhere than those who sprung from Southern chivalry who retain among the different surroundings of California their innate scorn of meanness of spirit and of anything that savors of ungentlemanliness. From the old blue grass state there has come to the Pacific coast an element that will prove of wonderful value in the upbuilding of the commonwealth of California.

Among those who hail from Kentucky are the following:

PURCHASE TRANSFER CO.

On Wednesday of this week Claude B. and Hearn H. Robinson purchased the Carroll Transfer and Storage Co. located at 1111½ W. Broadway. The Robinson brothers will without doubt make a great success of their new venture as they number their acquaintances by the hundred in Glendale and Tropico, having for four years owned the Robinson Bros. Grocery and Market at Brand Blvd. and Park Ave In addition to building up and greatly improving the transfer business which they have just purchased a passenger auto service will be operated in connection with the transfer work—Oakland and Ford cars being used. Mr. Claude Robinson wil' have the auto passenger service under his direct supervision. They assure their patrons of prompt and efficient service and will operate a daily transfer line to and from Los Angeles. Another feature is the fact that a specialty will be made of parcel delivery as well as the ordinary heavy transfer work.

COUNTY FARM ADVISER

MOVEMENT ON FOOT TO ORGANIZE LOS ANGELES COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Those who are interested in the development and progress of agriculture in Los Angeles county will hear with approval that a movement is on foot to secure an agricultural adviser for that district. There are undoubtedly experts in this neighborhood who would be suitable for such a position and practical farmers and cultivators will appreciate the advantages that would accrue to the county from such an appointment.

This matter has been brought to the attention of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, which is anxious to make this matter as public as possible in order that Glendale may be efficiently and sufficiently represented at the approaching meeting in Los Angeles. Following is the letter bearing on this subject:

Gardena Valley Chamber of Commerce, Gardena, Cal., Nov. 1, 1915.

Mr. J. W. Usilton, Pres.
Glendale Chamber of Commerce, Glendale, Cal.

Dear Sir: You are respectfully requested and urged to send an agricultural representative or representatives of your organization to meet with agricultural representatives of all other county civic or agricultural organizations. The meeting will be held in the assembly room of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Saturday, November 20, at 10 a. m. The purpose of the meeting is to organize a Los Angeles County Farm Bureau and secure a county farm adviser.

Under the provisions of the Smith-Lever bill, which passed congress in the spring of 1914, money is appropriated which, together with state and county appropriations, creates a fund for employing county farm advisers. The duty of an adviser is to render agricultural assistance to any number of the farm bureaus within his county. Only a few of the counties of California have taken advantage of this opportunity.

Please encourage any one in your community who is interested in agricultural progress to attend this meeting. Kindly hand this notice to the press that it may receive publicity.

Yours truly,

J. T. NORTON,
President.

CASE OF KIDNAPING

Chief of Police Herald is busy gathering up the ends of a tangled story concerning the kidnaping of a Mexican boy from Verdugo canyon. The boy, Joe Flores, lived with his mother in the canyon. There is a large family of children and the woman has been married at least twice. Azus Difara, a Mexican who boarded with the woman, started Tuesday for La Canada. It is supposed the man had been drinking. The boy Flores, like all boys, was easily persuaded to go along with him or went with him of his own accord. Azus' wagon was a great temptation with the promise of a ride up the canyon. The man and boy went to La Canada and there Difara went to one of those illicit liquor shanties that exist along the valley. From that point he disappeared. There were seven Mexicans drinking in the shanty and it is believed that one of them took the boy away. He was last seen in company with two Mexicans going to Pasadena.

LITERARY SECTION

There was a gratifying attendance at the last meeting of the Literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, which met at the home of Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, 200 Orange street, Wednesday afternoon. The members were enthusiastic over the program, which was of a varied and entertaining character. Mrs. Wayland Brown gave with great acceptance a reading from one of J. M. Barrie's plays. Mrs. McReynolds made an exhaustive and illuminating review of Phelps' "Essays and Modern Novelists." Mrs. Mabel Ocker's review of Maeterlinck's "The Unknown Guest" showed profound knowledge of the spirit of the great Belgian writer.

INDIANA "WETS" ARE BUSY

The "wets" tried to make a "tank station" out of Noblesville, Indiana, today. There is no "wet" town between Indianapolis and Logansport, 76 miles, and to break this drought Noblesville was chosen as the most likely prospect. Noblesville went "dry" two years ago by a majority of ten.

WONDERS OF OUR NATIVE LAND

Doubtless the good fashion of seeing America first will grow as years go on. There is much to see and a great deal of which to be proud. Among other effects of the war this is not the least beneficial to the country. It has thrown Americans on their own resources for sightseeing and many of them have been made aware for the first time that there is such a thing as a Pacific coast and such a marvelous land as Alaska.

When Vancouver made his notable voyage of discovery along the coasts of Oregon and Washington he did a great deal for the United States unwittingly. That enterprising British admiral, who left his impress on every bay and headland from Portland to the inmost recess of Puget Sound, had little idea that the mighty empire he discovered in the northwest would in great part go to increase the goodly heritage of the United States. The empire of the northwest is a marvel of natural beauty and one of the grandest sights in this great land.

When God called forth the land from the sea on the coasts of Washington and Oregon he doubtless had in view the great race that now occupies that country and doubtless had also in view a much greater race that is daily developing from them. Washington State is a land fitted by the mildness of its climate and its abundant water supply to be a great storehouse of the United States. Some day when war shall have ceased and peace shall begin to extend her triumphs, the superabundant waters of Washington State will be impounded and wisely and scientifically directed toward the deserts of other States, which will then bloom forth in beauty and bring forth in abundance.

This wonderful State of Washington has one of the most wonderful cities in America—Seattle. It is worth a journey to the extreme northern boundary of the United States to see that great city that stands guard over the traffic of the Pacific and also over the vast trade with Alaska. Time would fail anyone to tell of the wonders of the Alaska trade. It was Alaska that made Seattle. Before 1900 Seattle was a small, though growing, city. Taking its name from the famous Indian chief, Seattle, the city has always partaken in a certain degree of the characteristics of the old tribes that dwelt there when Vancouver was making his voyage of exploration. In the very heart of the city stands a mighty totem pole, gorgeous in native colors and picturesque with those quaint tribal symbolic carvings for which the various Siwash tribes, as the white man, with ready ignoring of native meanings, styles them all, are famous. That totem pole gives the characteristic note to the city.

Go to Seattle and learn what the "Seattle spirit" means. It is the spirit of the United States combined with a few elements of the northwest—activity, daring, courage, endurance, skill, foresight, and the undaunted soul that never knows that it is beaten and so keeps on to the end. With all this modern spirit there dwells in the hearts of the inhabitants of this wonderful spot a genuine love of the beauty that surrounds them and every steamboat that plies from Seattle to Tacoma, that wonderful city with its natural harbor and its immense commerce, or penetrates the mazes of the Sound to its farther end in the lumber country where Shelton stands, is crowded with the people of Seattle or Tacoma eager to drink in the beauty of the mighty inland sea that lies in solemn stillness with the snowcapped Mount Rainier keeping watch and ward alway on the lovely land among its foothills.

In the evening, in the moonlight, surrounded by the solemn stillness which falls like a silvery, silken veil of light on the inland waters of the Sound or of the mighty chain of lakes on which Seattle stands, the most indifferent mortal cannot fail to feel that there is the very house of God and the gate of heaven.

EXPERT ADVICE FOR AGRICULTURISTS

Farming is a science. It is one of the oldest of sciences. The farmers and cultivators of the ancient world amassed by practical experience a vast deal of agricultural lore. Much of this was excellent as will be remembered by those who have read Virgil's "Georgics." Modern agricultural science, however, has gone a great deal farther than a mere rotation of crops, necessary as that may be for successful cultivation of even the smallest patch of ground.

In these days the farmer, if he has not had the advantage of a course of study at an agricultural college, which many of the American cultivators have had the wisdom to take, can at least secure the advice of an expert. These experts are to be found in every State. They are graduates of the State Agricultural colleges. The profession of agricultural expert is one which is not crowded as yet and offers opportunities to young men. Some of the young men of Glendale are now studying at State colleges of agriculture, such as the well-known establishment in Oregon.

It will be seen at once that the matter is one which intimately concerns every county. It is, therefore, well that a move in the direction of securing an agricultural expert as adviser to farmers in the County of Los Angeles is at last taking definite shape. From the letter addressed to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, published in another column, it will be learned that by provision of Congress money has been appropriated for the remuneration of county farm advisers, who will give agricultural assistance to any member of a farm bureau in his jurisdiction. Several counties in California have already taken advantage of this provision and the services of the county farm adviser in San Diego County has resulted in an increased yield of all crops where his advice has been sought and put into execution.

While the ordinary farmer may be an excellent, practical man, and skilled in ordinary farm methods, he is not usually able to analyze soils and in this way tell exactly for which crops his land is best suited; or what ingredients should be supplied to it in order to increase its yield and making the farming of it profitable.

It will be well if those who are interested in this matter communicate with the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and make plans for getting in touch with this movement. It would be impossible to exaggerate the benefits that would result in this county from the advice of an agricultural expert.

SUFFRAGE AT THE SOUTH

There is no cause either for surprise or regret that the women of Georgia have failed to endorse the plan of suffrage for themselves. Georgia is in no sense an advanced state. It neglects to protect its boys and girls by child-labor laws. It is sadly deficient in regard to all phases of education. The supremacy of men folks always has been recognized, and the women subordinated. In a theoretical fashion, they have been idealized. Chivalry has surrounded them, lifted them to pedestals, and proclaimed them far too fine and good to be in any degree intellectual or independent. Their status has been that of pampered inferiority. Ever the Georgian has boasted of his deference to women, and ever, to those of other sections, regarding women as human beings endowed with mind, the claim has sounded hollow. It does not stand the test. Do the laws of Georgia safeguard the rights of women? They do not. Nobody cared anything about shabby and ill-nourished Mary Phagan as she toiled for a pittance. Where was gallantry when that poor maid fought her own fight against poverty, frail of body, untaught? To say to the women of Georgia, "You are our equals. We want your help in council. We need you in the creation of just and benign statutes," that would be a true chivalry, not a chivalry of pretense. The men do not say it, and so long have they dominated, ignoring the women save academically, when they praise and exalt them, that the women themselves see only with limited vision. It was to have been expected. In this particular relation to the body politic, the people of Georgia need to be educated. The influence will have to be exerted from without. Probably the South will accept suffrage only after all the rest of the country, and then in view of necessity, and not with genuine gladness.—Pasadena News.

Gen. Funston has taken his men out of the trenches at Douglas, Arizona, and has lined them up ready for action. Already many Americans have been wounded by bullets from rifles and machine guns, in the course of the battle at Agua Prieta, between the Villistas and the Carranzistas. Funston has very properly made ready against possibilities, and it is to his credit that he should have the patience and resolution that have hitherto enabled him to keep the United States troops out of the wretched quarrel. Funston is a soldier of no mean attainment. Everyone will readily recall the daring trip he made disguised, and with only a handful of Filipino soldiers, across the island of Luzon, when he effected the capture of Aguinaldo, the Filipino insurgent chief. Funston understands well how to deal with the semi-Spanish nature and may be trusted to handle the situation on the Texas border with discretion and also with wise action if necessary.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mrs. Alvin Borson of Everett St. was the guest of Mrs. I. C. Rice of 1632 Ruth street on Wednesday at a prettily appointed luncheon.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Crawford of Viola avenue, who is in Los Angeles undergoing treatments for serious spinal trouble, will be very glad to learn that she is doing very nicely and is getting along as well as could be expected considering the seriousness of her condition.

The regular meeting of the P. T. A. of the Central avenue school has been postponed from Nov. 11 to Nov. 18 because of teachers' institute week. All interested in this meeting please make a note of this change.

Mr. C. H. Horton of Dryden street returned from the Antelope valley the first of the week where he has spent several weeks looking after his extensive ranch property in that locality.

Mr. George H. Mouncey of Monrovia was in North Glendale on business last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. West of 1333 Valley View road returned last Sunday evening from the San Joaquin valley where they went by automobile, Mr. West driving a Culting car going by the inland route to Fresno, Cal., and from there to Hanford, crossing the Tempe Flores mountains to the Lost Hills and from Paso Robles they crossed the plains, a long, hazardous trip, which took them from 3:15 Friday afternoon until 10:30 that night. During this time they lost their way several times because of the short cuts and by road conditions. Reaching Santa Barbara they came down the coast route and although very tired Mrs. West reported a very interesting and pleasant trip. Mr. West declared that it would require a fat purse as a wager to persuade him to cover the same route again.

ROCKEFELLER ON EUGENICS

Concerning the new eugenic play, "The Unborn," produced in New York today by physicians and philanthropists, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., said:

"For the first time in dramatic history the perplexing problem of the limitation of undesirable offspring which has been engaging the attention of thoughtful eugenists and sociologists the wor'd over is dealt with on the stage in a play that we are to produce. The right of the child to be well born and the right of the wife to decide about it are problems the solution of which society can no longer ignore."

COST OF ILLNESS GOES UP

This winter is going to be a very fine time for everybody to keep well because the drug famine precipitated by the European war has greatly increased the high cost of being ill.

"Some of our best professional invalids have experienced sudden recovery recently and we have reason to believe the experience was superduced by the prices of prescriptions," a New York physician is reported to have said.

The big drug firms, in spite of increasing prices on some drugs more than 300 per cent cannot supply the demand because there is no supply.

Quinine has jumped from 30 cents to $2.25 an ounce, glycerine from 20 to 58 cents a pound, cod liver oil from $40 to $80 a barrel, sage from 5c to 35 cents a pound. Sweet herbs, bromides, potassium permanganates, olive oil, sarsaparilla and many other drugs have gone 'way up. Some drugs cannot be obtained for love, money or influence.

New Ideas in Bungalettes

Fairmount hotel, under the progressive management of F. D. Hanger, will inaugurate something new in the line of hotel accommodation. The eleven bungalettes which are run in connection with this popular foothill resort at the present time, will have a community kitchen where guests may cook and serve meals as they wish.

In order to further facilitate the enjoyment of the guests who plan on cooking their own meals, the hotel will open a commisary. This innovation will undoubtedly be appreciated by the week-end parties visiting the Fairmount.

Guests at the Fairmount the past week have been W. A. McKibben and son, E. F. McKibben; M. Crittenden, of Los Angeles. The D. E. Wetherbees were Sunday dinner guests. Mr. Hanger is connected with the Independent Oil company in Bloomington.

What came very near being a serious fire occurred at the home of Mr. A. T. Smith last Thursday morning. The fire started from a leak in the gasoline stove when Mrs. Don Smith lighted the stove to start breakfast. The room was ablaze in an instant and the family and neighbors rushed to the rescue. Howard Stickney dipped a rug in the reservoir as he ran by and it was really through his presence of mind that the fire was brought under control. What About Burr Avenue?

In an interview with the Progress reporter William R. Jewett, who resides on Burr avenue, spoke of contemplated improvement of that street. According to Mr. Jewett the county will not be able to furnish oil and rock for the surfacing of the avenue for at least six months, whereas a concrete road which would run from Edwin T. Earl's property to Michigan avenue (the state highway) could be put in immediately. The expense of the latter road would be slightly greater than a county road but Mr. Jewett believes that as Burr is become one of the principal avenues of the town, the cement road would be the greater benefit.

Reasons given as to why Burr would become a principal avenue were: It is a ridge road leading directly to Mr. Earl's development work; it commands the finest view of the valley, for one is able to see Los Angeles, Pasadena, the beaches, Santa Catalina island and the ocean, and there is no point on the street from which one can look without getting a magnificent view.

Gen. Von Mackensen is supposed to be in Constantinople by Dec. 1. Apparently the kaiser has not got over the habit of making dates, though he is overdue in Paris.

Dispatches have had Villa beaten and his forces scattered. The insurgent chief must be a wonder for he has brought his "beaten" army up to the scratch once more.

San Francisco fair is nearing its close. Its legend was "California Invites the World." The world nobly responded.

It has been practically settled that San Diego fair will remain open next year. With San Francisco no longer a competitor the border exposition should have a chance.
